

CARTOONING

STEAMED BROCOLLI CARTOON

www.activitytv.com

DESCRIPTION

Bruce Blitz is going to show you how in the world of cartooning, vegetables have feelings too!

MATERIALS

- pad of paper
- pencil
- marker
- colored chalks or colored pencils
- eraser

DIRECTIONS

1. Start by drawing the broccoli. Draw a fluffy cloud shape. Add a thick stem coming out of the bottom.
2. Draw a wiggly carrot shape next to it, taller than the broccoli. Draw leaves on the top.
3. Add a few lines for detail to the carrot, and add a ground line.
4. Inside the broccoli, draw 2 C's for eyes, with 2 heavy black pupils. Draw in thick eyebrows going down to make him look angry.
5. Draw a wide teardrop shape for a nose.
6. Draw an upside down U and a line connecting the bottom for his frowning mouth. Add gridded teeth and a small line for a lower lip.
7. For the carrot, draw two large black dots for pupils and furry eyebrows also going down.
8. Give him a long nose and a similar mouth to the broccoli. This time, draw a line going across the middle and only give him teeth on the top half. Add a tongue in the bottom half to show that his mouth is open.
9. Add some sweat drops around their faces and the words "HEY.." above the broccoli's head. Write "OH YEAH!" next to the carrot.
10. Color the broccoli in green and the carrot orange. Use green for the leaves, and red for the tongue and cheeks. Add some wavy red lines around the vegetables to show that they're "steaming mad!"