DIRECTIONS

1. Remember your favorite juggling tricks and put them together, choosing the ones that work well together and in a row.
2. Another thing to think about is showmanship. What are you going to wear? What is your schtick?
3. One of the most important things to remember when you perform is that you need to interact with audience. You need to learn how to learn to look away from objects and into audience. Tell jokes, and look people in the eye.
4. Now take what you've put together and practice your routine in front of your friends and family. They can really help fine tune your performance. Just remember to have fun with it!
